

JAPS PROTEST THE ATTITUDE

Of The French In Allowing The Russian Vessels To Recoil In Their Harbor.

FRANCE MAKES SUITABLE REPLY

French Vessels Will See That The Rights Of A Neutral Nation Are Not Overstepped By Baltic Squadron.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Paris, April 20.—A report that the Japanese government had protested against the continuance of the Russian fleet in Kamranh bay as a violation of neutrality is confirmed. Minister of Foreign Affairs Delcasse replied courteously, saying the information requested would be furnished, although it would take some time to get the facts.

Still There.—The Baltic fleet is still in Kamranh bay. Admiral D. Jonquiere, commanding the French vessels, has taken every step to insure neutrality of the French while the vessels remain in their waters.

Turning Movement Checked.—St. Petersburg, April 20.—A dispatch from Gungshu says that the Russians have discovered a turning movement eighty miles northwest of Kuan Chengshen and thirty miles northeast of Gungshu, on the part of two forces, each of three thousand Chinese bandits, several thousand Japanese cavalry and twenty-two guns.

No More Coal.—Hongkong, April 20.—The governor has issued another proclamation against the exportation of coal except in consignments required by vessels which take it aboard.

London, April 20.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Tokio declares that the Japanese fleet is ready to sail for Kamranh bay, where the Russian fleet is believed to be waiting for the arrival of Vice Admiral Nebogatoff's division, now crossing the Indian ocean.

This is the first reference to the plans of the Japanese fleet that has been permitted to be cabled from Japan since the Russian fleet entered the China sea on April 8.

Another dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Tokio referring to the stay of the Baltic fleet at Kamranh bay, says matters have reached the inevitable crisis. Japan has adopted the only course open to her and a formal protest has been delivered to France.

Great Britain to Aid.—It is expected in Japan that Great Britain will heartily support this action, but it is hoped that France will conform to what is considered the elementary principles of neutrality. Otherwise the situation, to which there must be a time limit, will become exceedingly grave.

The tone of the Japanese press continues indignant. The Kokumin declares that if the Japanese protest is ignored Kamranh bay must be regarded as a dead end.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION VOTING FOR A PRESIDENT.—Are Involved in a Deadlock at Washington.—Mrs. Donald McLean Has the Lead.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.] Washington, April 20.—The first ballot for president-general of the D. A. R. resulted in a deadlock. Mrs. Donald McLean of New York received 342; Mrs. George H. Sternberg, Washington, 201. Necessary to a choice, 354. Another ballot will be taken today.

SOME GRAVE RESULTS OF CIGARETTE LAWS

Man in New Albany, Indiana, Suicides When The Paper Pipe Supply Gives Out.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

New Albany, Ind., April 20.—One death, one suicide and one case of self-exile from the state were among the results of the operation of the Indiana anti-cigarette law Wednesday.

Another incident of the day was the decision of a court holding that the law does not apply to consumers, and under which ruling the victims of the tragedies, had they known it, might have gone on in the enjoyment of life and the inhalation of pungent smoke.

Not knowing of this decision, however, and, in fact, not being well up on the law itself, Jim McNerney had an experience which determined in his mind that "Indiana is no place to live now."

Resigns After Arrest.

McNerney was arrested for smoking a paper pipe here and, although he was released because there was no city judge to try the case, he was not comforted. He went at once to the office of the electrical company by which he was employed and quit his job, saying that he could not live in ed as the Russian base. The Jiji Shimpu says that a protest without ready force supporting it will be useless.

Japan Enters Protest.—Tokio, April 20.—Japan has made a strong protest to France against the Baltic fleet staying in Kamranh bay. It is strongly felt here that France is actively assisting the Russians within what is practically the zone of hostilities. The expected advent of the third Russian squadron into the China sea in about a week strengthens the opinion.

The situation is one of exceeding gravity, so far as French neutrality is concerned, and may force Japan to avail herself of her alliance with Great Britain, which provides that in the event of Japan being attacked by any two powers Great Britain is bound to assist her.

Sages in Conference.—The elder statesmen and members of the cabinet held a conference which lasted for five hours.

Information received here is taken to indicate that the Russian squadron proposes staying at Kamranh bay until May 7. Admiral Rojestvensky meanwhile is sending out cruisers to overhaul merchantmen proceeding along the trade route to the straits of Formosa.

The transports accompanying the Russian squadron are reported to be plying between Kamranh bay and Saigon under the merchant flag of Russia.

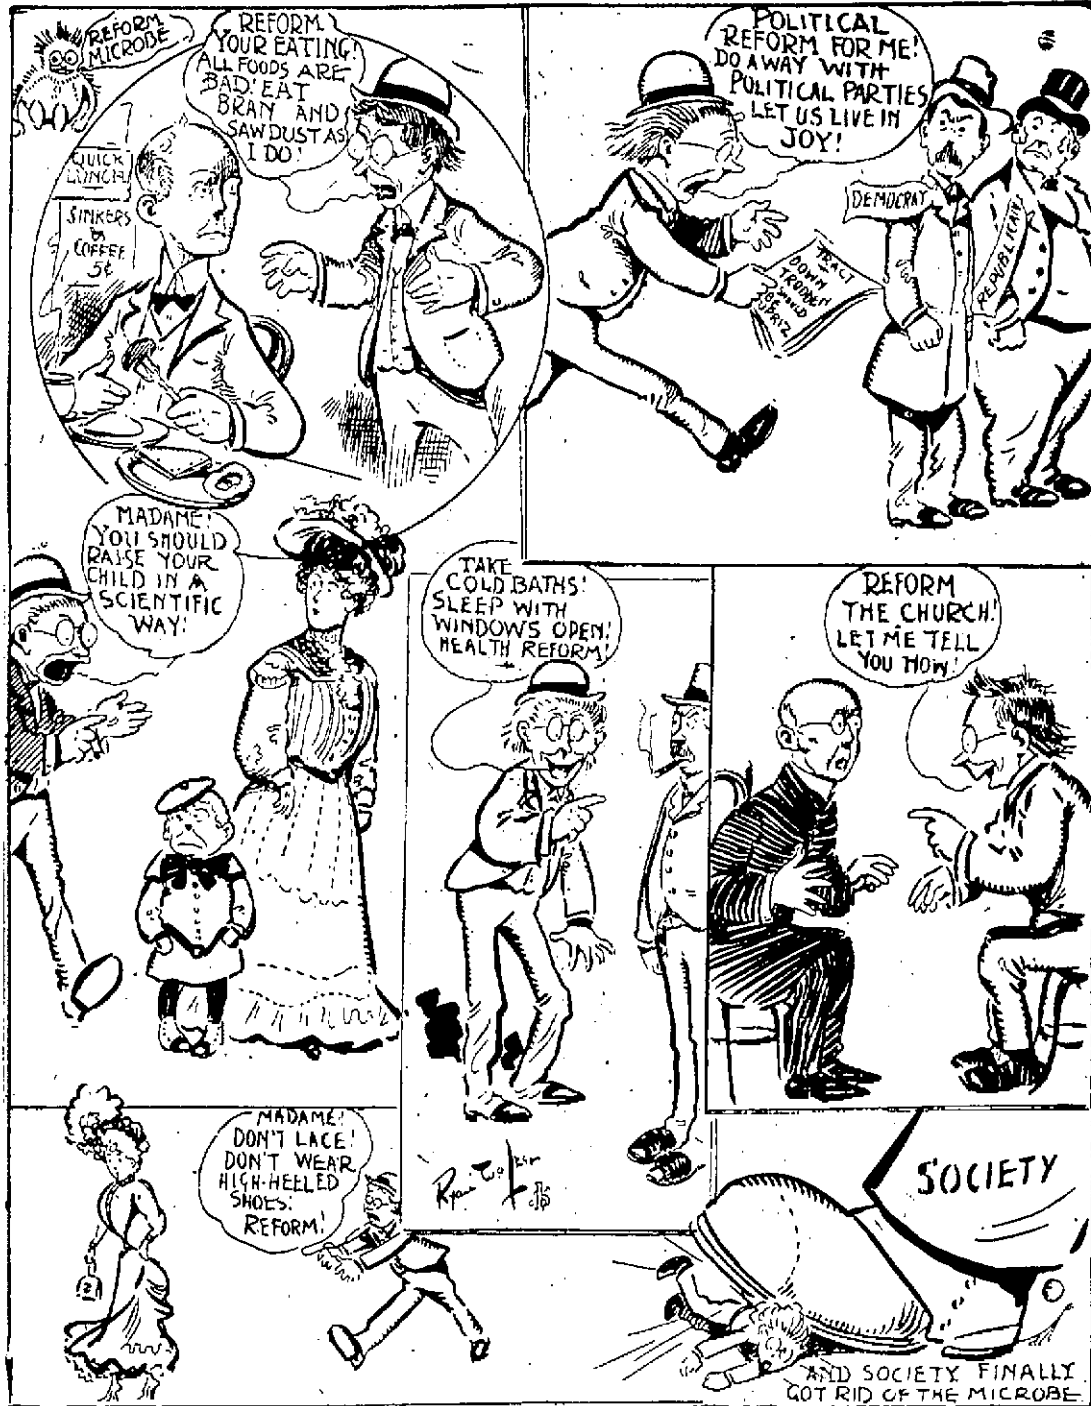

New Triple Alliance.—St. Petersburg, April 20.—It is stated that Russia has sought France's help on behalf of the Baltic fleet. A brisk exchange of views occurred between France and Russia and Germany, with the result that all three powers are agreed theoretically either to put on neutrality obligations by certain powers is excessive and unjustified, or has become incompatible with later day conditions.

France, it is credibly asserted, is eager to extend her benevolence to the furthest extent compatible with immunity from international reprisals, regarding immunity as largely insured by England's friendship. Delcasse, the French foreign minister, alone is reluctant to incur serious risks.

Russia's German friends are extremely optimistic. They are confident that England's influence will tranquilize the Japanese.

CRISIS EXPECTED IN STRIKE TODAY

Coal Teamsters May Be Involved in Montgomery Ward Troubles at Chicago.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Chicago, April 20.—The strike against Montgomery Ward & Co. threatens to spread until it involves all the coal teamsters. A crisis in the situation is expected today. A committee of coal team-owners called on the company today and offered its services in an effort to settle the strike. If this effort fails it is believed the team-owners will either force the drivers to deliver coal or lock them out.

GARFIELD TALKS OF KANSAS CASES

State's Attorney in Ouster Suits Tells Commissioner of Evidence to Convict the Standard Co.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Kansas City, April 20.—Commissioner Garfield arrived here today. He said that the work in the Kansas field had assumed such proportions that he will be obliged to return there after a trip to California. The commissioner visited the offices of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and continued his investigation there. He later had a conference with Herbert S. Hadley, state's representative in the Ouster suits against the Standard Oil Co. in Missouri. Hadley says he has sufficient evidence to prove that the Standard has been violating the Missouri anti-monopoly laws.

CLAUDE H. MESSER ON TRIAL TODAY

Is Charged by Electric Light Company with Appropriating Current.

In municipal court this afternoon is being heard the case of Claude H. Messer, charged with appropriating to his own use current belonging to the Janesville Electric company. At three o'clock the only witness who had testified was P. H. Korst, secretary and manager of the prosecuting company. District Attorney Newhouse is prosecuting the case and Attorney T. S. Nolan appears for the defendant. The endeavor of the defense is to show that the motive of the prosecution is to use the evidence to aid in securing a patent at Washington over the defendant and not to recover the amount due the Electric Co. for the use of the current.

Mr. Korst testified that he visited the shop of Mr. Messer in the basement of the Hayes block about the third or fourth of February, and found the wires tapped and an arc lamp and incandescent light in use, and that on the sixth of the same month witness had a meter to measure the current used, installed. Mr. Korst also stated on the stand that when the shop was visited later by one of the employees of the Electric company that the meter was found to have been opened and tampered with. The jury hearing the evidence is comprised of Robert Erler, C. T. Wright, George Smith, A. J. Wilbur and A. F. Sanborn.

MR. HYDE MEETS WITH COMMITTEES

Vice President of the Equitable Life Hears the Request for His Resignation.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

New York, April 20.—A committee of five of the Equitable Life Assurance society general agents, appointed yesterday to call upon Vice President Hyde to request him to resign, arrived at Hyde's house at 9 East 40th street at nine-thirty this morning, and are now conferring with him. Hyde's counsel is present.

Hyde declined most politely to resign, declaring such action on his part would be "cowardly and disgraceful." The committee retired with Hyde's answer and reported to the meeting of agents at the Savoy hotel. Hyde told the committee that judging from the reports of their meeting, the agents had not the remotest conception of the unfortunate controversy or the motive behind the struggle for control of the society. He said that the agents were entitled to know the real facts and he would, therefore, write tomorrow in reply to the request contained in their remarkable communication.

CAN WIFE TESTIFY AGAINST BIGAMIST?

Attorney for Johann Hoch Contends That She Cannot—Wants a German Judge.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Chicago, Ill., April 20.—When his case came up in Judge Kersten's court today, Johann Hoch, on trial for the murder of his wife, Marie Welker Hoch, impressed upon his counsel the fact that he wanted a German judge. Hoch's counsel raised this point, and it may lead to a retrial. The attorney contends that the present grand jury which re-indicted Hoch heard no witnesses, and therefore the indictment is invalid. He also contends that Mrs. Fischer-Hoch, being a wife of the defendant, cannot testify against him. She is the star witness against Hoch.

BOTTOM DROPS FROM GATES' WHEAT CORNER

Market at Chicago and Western Centers Blumped Several Points This Morning.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Chicago, Ill., April 20.—With a crash the bottom dropped out of Gates' corner in May wheat on the Board of Trade today. From the opening at $1.13 1/2, May dropped to $1.05 1/2 within a few minutes. The failure of the Gates people to round out the corner which has been a sensational feature of the market for weeks past, was due to large accumulations of cash wheat by the Armour interests. It is said that Gates realized his inability to carry out the corner and made terms with Armour today. The extent of his losses are not known. The market slumped at all other important points in the west as a result of the smashing of the corner.

BACHELORS' BILL A DEAD LETTER

Refused By The Assembly After A Mirth-Provoking Controversy -- Other Important Matters.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 20.—Doubt as to the passage of a railroad rate commission bill by the Wisconsin legislature was largely removed last night by the announcement and confirmation from the senate committee on railroads that the committee had agreed upon a bill to be favorably reported. The last element of disagreement among the members of the committee, regarding what should constitute a stay of proceedings from the decisions of the commission, was settled by the agreement on the provision that the decisions of the committee should not become effective until sixty days after the decisions were rendered, and that if a further delay were desired the objectors should go into court and secure an injunction.

Have Agreed.—This provision was agreed to by the conservative and administration members of the committee, among whom is Senator Johnson, who is looked upon as the anti-La Follette leader on matters concerning railroad legislation. Senator Merton, the democratic member of the committee, is absent at his home in Waukesha, detained by sickness, and the bill will doubtless be reported in his absence, although he is opposed to the provision that the commissioner be appointed by the governor.

Elective Board.—The democratic leader stands out in favor of an elective commission. It appears from the attitude of Senator Johnson and other members opposed to the radical position of Governor La Follette that the demand for a rate commission will be acquiesced in and a measure passed if the senate and assembly can agree. The failure to pass a measure will hardly come from factional differences between the two houses. This situation gives promise that Governor La Follette will not decline the election to the United States senate in place of J. V. Quarles, which the governor announced he would decline if the rate commission bill failed to pass.

State Funds.—Never have the trust funds of the state been loaned out so completely as at present. In the brief period since March 1, there have been loaned to school districts and townships the aggregate sum of $401,469. At present there are applications on file for loans aggregating nearly $100,000, but these will have to wait in order until money comes in to provide for them. Not all the loans applied for are made. Each application has to be submitted to a careful legal examiner by Law Examiner F. T. Tucker and found regular and proper before the money is advanced. These loans range in amounts from a few hundred dollars to $25,000 or more. Of the amount loaned out since March 1, $315,109.61 is from the school fund and $92,300 from the normal school fund.

Shows Gratitude.—"I am glad to be photographed defending so meritorious a measure as this," declared Assemblyman Cleary last night upon recovering from the shock of a flashlight surprise as he arose to argue for his bill to tax unmarried men of 30 years and over $5 a year. After a spirited debate the measure was killed, but it took all the influence and oratory of the legislative bachelors to accomplish it. Assemblyman Cleary is engaged to be married, but he affirms he won his girl by fair wooing and not through advocating the "taxing of" bachelors out of existence.

Madison, Wis., April 20.—Governor La Follette submitted a lengthy special message to the legislature, reciting the inadequacy of laws for the protection of persons traveling on railroad trains; giving statistics of accidents to passengers and employees; also stating that railroads completely and inaccurately report accidents and suppress facts concerning wrecks; and strongly urging the legislature to enact sufficient statutes to

BLAME FOR MEXICAN LAND FRAUDS SHIFTED

Indiana Members Of The Ubero Company Say Wrongdoing Was Confined To The East.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Indianapolis, Ind., April 20.—Indiana members of the Ubero company, which W. D. Owen, former congressman and secretary of state, organized, and against which a fraud order has been issued by the postoffice department, contend that there never was any wrongdoing on their part nor on the part of Owen while he was in active control of the company, and that if frauds have been committed they had their origin in Boston.

The original of the many Ubero companies was an Indiana concern and included among its officers several state officers and one judge of the Appellate court.

Owen was head of the concern, which was known as the Mexican Coffee and Rubber company, and its management was left to him in all essential details.

Owen bought about 5,000 acres of jungle near Tehuantepec. This tract was almost inaccessible, so that the land cost Owen practically nothing.

Company Loses Money.—But he found out that a railroad was to be built and this would place the land within reach. After Owen became secretary of state of Indiana he took Nat. U. Hill, U. Z. Wiley, A. C. Daily, and W. I. Overstreet, the last named of Terre Haute, down to view the land.

The Mexican Coffee and Rubber company was organized with Owen as president. The original capital stock was $75,000, and of this amount Owen and his stepson, Henry Luce, had about $50,000. It was a cultivation company. Owen sold tracts of land to numerous people, to be paid for in one, two, three, four and five years after date of sale. This company agreed to clear the tracts and cultivate them for five years. It tried to carry out the contract but the cost was so great that there was nothing left in profits.

Land Changes Hands.—About 1,000 acres were turned over to the Ubero Plantation company of Indianapolis, another company organized by Owen, with the same officers and directors as the Mexican Coffee and Rubber company. This company had a capital stock of $200,000. It sold this land in tracts, the Mexican Coffee and Rubber company agreeing to clear and cultivate it for five years. At the end of this time the Mexican Coffee and Rubber company was to turn the land over to the Ubero Plantation company, and for its services in cultivating and planting it was to receive $200,000.

Interlocking System.—The stock of the Ubero Plantation company was sold by Frederick A. Borges, who is prominent in the affairs of the Boston concerns. Borges was a liveryman at Logansport, and a friend of Owen.

The Mexican Coffee and Rubber company turned over the land to the Ubero company about four years ago, and received about $200,000. Members of the Mexican Coffee and Rubber company say they did not make a cent in the transaction.

Owen and Borges organized the Tropical Surety company under the laws of Maine. Its headquarters are in a little town in that state. The two other companies sold all of their land to this surety company.

Take Bonds for Holding.—The surety company was back of the Boston organization promoted by Owen and Borges, known as the Consolidated Ubero Plantation company of Boston, a concern that was to take in all the subsidiary companies. The consolidated company had a capital stock of $2,500,000 and a like amount of bonds, and of these bonds $1,500,000 were sold.

The Mexican Coffee and Rubber company received no money from the Consolidated for its lands, but did get $300,000 in bonds of the Consolidated. The officers of the Mexican company say they hope to save something out of the bunch in Boston, but the outlook is not encouraging.

Owen, it is understood, sold all of his stock before he went to Europe.

WRITES ABOUT WORK AT FRONT

C. V. HIBBARD REPORTS ON Y. M. C. A. LABORS

WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY

Sends Letter to His Wife in This City—What Others Are Doing.

Following is a letter received from C. V. Hibbard by Mrs. Susie Lowell Hibbard in this city. Mr. Hibbard is now at the front in the Japanese army among the sons of the Flower Kingdom and the massive which contains a portion of one of his reports to the Y. M. C. A. National Union of Japan is prepared by that union for American newspapers.

Tokyo, March 1, 1905.—The success of the Army Department of the Y. M. C. A. has not been confined to provision by the Associations for the physical comforts of the soldiers. As much as these are appreciated and used as the most sought after ministrations of the secretaries are the spiritual. The following extracts from different secretaries show the great opportunity for direct religious work among the men at the front:

A Bible Class
"Takabatake has just closed his Bible class. He stood at one end of the hibachi (fire box) while the men sat or stood all around him. To as many as wanted them Testaments were distributed. As he talked he gave the references and made his points on a post in the wall behind him."

"Just now I was interrupted by the question, 'What is baptism?' I looked up to see the face of a cavalryman with whom I had a little chat over the hibachi the other day, and to whom I gave a gospel. back with a string of questions that was imposing to say the least. There is no limit to the opportunity for such conversation except the limit of one's ability."

Word From Gleason.
"Last Sunday afternoon I sat thrilled by the report of Kawasumi as he related what he had done at the real front where he was near enough to hear the cannon balls exploding not a quarter of a mile away. He has been twice to Lianyung, he and Mr. Fujii going together once, visiting hospitals and distributing 3,000 postal cards. Mr. Kawasumi was near the place where the engagement of which we read in the papers recently was fought. He was amazed at his reception. On the train an officer asked his business."

"I am engaged in the tent work," he replied.
"Oh, so? I know this from the newspapers. If you will only come and visit us, I will give you a gochiso (feast)."

On the Firing Line.
"Kawasumi has been given free privileges to visit anywhere in a certain army. He not only gives out cards, but he is urged again and again to tell the men any message of comfort. When a certain company was to be sent out to the firing line the next day, they sent for him and urged that as they were going where there was danger, he ought to speak to them first. Three or four officers with whom he chatted at night asked him for Bible or any book about the Christian faith. The men have found that in times of stress, the Bible words do give real strength and cheer. I met a man today who said that when he and a handful of men were posted at a certain place here (Biko) when the Russians attacked the camp, they were told to defend the spot to the death. He knew his danger and while waiting took out his one cent copy of Gospel of John, finding in this peace and contentment."

"On the day before the battle at the front, Mr. Kakasumi started off from somewhere at midnight and walked almost steadily until four in the afternoon. Then he got some supper and a bit of rest and was off again. However Kawasumi pushed on until he found a temporary hospital with every room full and men in the yard sitting around charcoal fires. The thermometer was below zero. As they lay there waiting for their wounds to be dressed, he passed from group to group telling them who he was and cheering them as best he could. It was an inspiration to see Kawasumi's face light up as he told of the appreciation of those poor suffering fellows."

A Clean Heart.
Mr. Hibbard reports this interesting incident from the new post at Fengwancheu:

"From ten until two we were busy with the routine work of 'comforting' and making preparations for a social meeting in the afternoon. Takabatake made all the plans and arranged the decorations with great effect. Chiba-san and Low Shu (the cooks) produced 600 odd cookies and did them up in little parcels with peanuts. By two o'clock our guests began to pour in, most of them strangers to us for our old friends have been moving on of late. Soon it was apparent that we were in a crush, in no figurative sense of the word. The room we use is 18 by 60 feet. It became impossible to get in by the door but more came in by the window at the opposite end of the stage. Takabatake made a short speech of welcome and was followed by a captain who is especially commissioned as an instructor of morals to the men. The captain spoke of our work at some length saying, 'There is a place to shave and cut your hair and so cleanse your body; a place to wash your clothes and I understand, it was the purpose, if circumstances had permitted, to provide a bath that you might cleanse the whole body; but the fundamental purpose of this work is to make the heart clean.' This captain and the commissioned officers of his company have given up the use of tobacco and intoxicating liquors, as they say, on account of the Y. M. C. A. work here."

Came in for Prayer.
"Yesterday while attending to affairs in a detached room which we have made a correspondence room, I noticed that Takabatake came in with a following of perhaps a dozen men, each in heavy marching order. With pack, blankets, canteen, extra shoes, and singing cartridge bells, they were just off for the front. As Takabatake caught the look of question on my face, he explained that they had come into this quiet room for prayer. They were very quiet while he prayed that they might be kept from needless accident and that if they were to offer up their lives on the battle field that this sacrifice might be acceptable in the sight of God."

"I hope the war will end soon now but the longer it lasts the greater is our opportunity. In three days two or more have reported as 'learners' or 'questioners.' As we hear of others we are going to open a regular 'question meeting.' In every case the men accepted the gospels and in not a few cases they asked eagerly for them before I offered them."

Speaks to Officers.
Mr. Wiyasumi was received by General Kuroki who heartily commended the work of the Association secretaries. Other high officers went out of their way to facilitate his work and urged that more secretaries be sent to the north from Yinkow as a base and promised to do all that he could to help their 'comforting' work. By special request Mr. Kawasumi addressed an assembly of officers including the division commander upon a religious topic and was urged to come again. "In this meeting (referring to that of the officers) I saw tears in several eyes," Mr. Kawasumi writes:

"The men at the front wish address as more than supplies. When I prayed at the end (of a certain address), they very very solemn (respectful) and expressed deep gratitude. I was permitted to preach and console at the front. I think that it is necessary to give Bibles to the soldiers."

Latest Word From Gleason.
Mr. Gleason writes from Yinkow under date of February 21st, as follows:

"Ochiki came in from Dahly on Sunday. His reports of the prospects there make me eager to get over to that lively spot. But I am also glad to remain here and add this work. It is splendid to be here where one is so much appreciated and where there are men from morning till night eager for religious instruction. Bible teaching, or some social recreation. Some fine fellows come in here."

Colonel Cooke, of Milwaukee, recruiting officer for the United States army and Lieutenant Colonel of the 26th Infantry was in the city yesterday and examined an applicant for the signal corps, Orrin E. Mr. Herremann's application was secured through the efforts of recruiting officer George Raguse, who is now making his headquarters in this city and will spend the next two and a half months here, being detailed for three months, recruiting men from Janesville and surrounding towns in southern Wisconsin. Mr. Raguse obtained four more applications today and as soon as Colonel Cooke can arrange again to visit this city these men will be examined. NOT HEREDITARY.

Baldness Due to a Living Minute Germ.

Many people, even until the present day of grace, consider baldness due to hereditary influence.

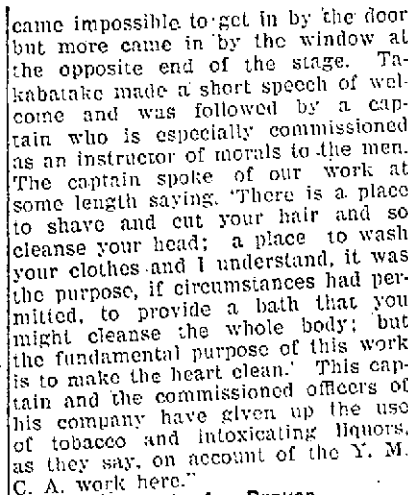

Nothing is further from the truth—Baldness is caused by the onslaught of a minute organism which secretes itself beneath the scalp and attacks the roots of the hair—causing it to lose its life and fall out.

This organism cannot be got rid of except by the free and persevering use of Newbro's Herpicide.

No matter how badly the scalp is effected the Dandruff surely disappears and hair health is restored when Herpicide is applied.

"GRESELOA"

By Marlan Gray.

Herbert B. Turner & Co., of Boston, have discovered a new and rising star in the literary firmament. In a young lady who shows in this, her first book, remarkable talent, which with mature years and study should give her no small place in the literary world.

Charles Warren Stoddard, Ph. D., LL. D., author, poet, and traveler, whose "Islands of Tranquil Delights" is a delightful literary elixir, and whose "South Sea Idylls" has become an American classic, says of Miss Grey's book: "A dainty volume containing the story of a forlorn little orphan, with much of the gipsy in her nature and love-lunger in her heart. There is something of the charm of Graham's 'Golden Age' in the telling of this simple story; something of the simplicity of the 'Pilgrim's Progress.' It is told with the freedom and freshness of youth and a humor that is delightfully naive."

Miss Letherby, the maiden aunt, does not understand the very spontaneous little person who has come to live with her.

"Miss Letherby's voice shook with emotion. 'Greselda, could you live here with me and be happy? Greselda's eyes wandered all around the room before she spoke."

"And read Chapters every night, and wash at the time, and never hang the door, or pick the blues, or yell when I make believe the corn is a big forest and I'm an Indian—and—"

she stopped for want of breath to finish, then, with a brief pause she said, "No."

Of course, there is an attic for the child to mouse in. "There were a dozen trunks there, Greselda would have said a hundred, of different kinds and, yes, shapes, for beside a huge, square, dusty-looking thing whose iron corners were indeed threatening, stood a small one of worn leather, void of everything like the dingy foreign tags pasted on the formidable looking neighbors. It seemed to say as plainly as a trunk could say anything, 'I'm the stay-at-home of this family.'"

Greselda is writing a story, as so many imaginative children do; she might be own cousin to William Henry, the letterwriter. We cannot get too much of Greselda's story and hope for more of it by and by. In one chapter she says:

"The minister's wife asked me if I liked this place. She asked of course I liked to be with Aunt Letherby. I said that sometimes I liked it awful well, but most always I just liked it."

"Pretty soon the minister's wife came back and she had a doll in her hand. She gave it to me and kissed me. I liked the kiss. I liked it much better than the doll."

"We went out into the garden and the minister's wife picked a big bunch of sweet peas and gave them to me and kissed me again. Those are the first kisses I've had since—I don't know since when."

"I don't like dolls much. 'They look at you the same way all the time and they can't talk. I'd rather play with the bug family, because they can move even if they can't say anything.'"

"This chapter isn't entertaining—" "I used to like to read better than anything else. Why? I sit by the hour a book in my hands and the people in it creeping into my heart, and forget that there was such a thing as trouble in the world. That was before I got such an awful bitter taste of it."

"I wish I could be in a story. Just think how funny it would seem to be only an inch high and drawn on a page."

Well, she is in a story, perhaps for the first time, and we are sure 'tis not for the last time. She's only an inch high, and drawn on a page with an inch high, and it is as funny as we can think, but it is also altogether delightful.

This little story is of local interest, because the author was at one time a Janesville girl. Her mother was a Miss Bertha Dann, and her grandfather, Geo. H. Dann, still lives here. The book is on sale at local book stores and is well worth reading.

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off.

Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

LENTEN SEASON IS NEARLY OVER NOW

Easter Festival To Be Preceded by Services Commemorating Calvary.

This morning, Maundy Thursday, was the beginning of the four days' solemn services which will occupy the next four days in the Episcopal, Catholic and Lutheran churches, which will mark the close of the Lenten season of fasting and prayer and which will have its climax in the glad Easter festival on Sunday, a festival in which all of the churches will join.

On that day the altar hangings and vestments of somber black which will be used in the celebration of Good Friday will be put aside and elaborate hangings and vestments of white and gold will take their place, the sorrowful ceremonies will change into services in which the note of joy and triumph is dominant, and all the churches will be elaborately decorated with Easter lilies and other flowers, white blossoms predominating.

ELECTRIC PIANO DISPENSED RAGTIME ALL NIGHT LONG

Instrument in Tom Siegel's Place Had a Little Lack of Its Own Last Evening.

Far into the morning, in fact until the arrival of the bartender at five o'clock, the electric piano in the Tom Siegel place which ordinarily dispensed brief hymns only in response to five-cent pieces dropped in its collection (it), played its entire repertoire over and over again without pause. In some mysterious manner the electric current formed a permanent play-ball-until-further-notice connection, and threw the sluice gates wide open for an uninterrupted flow of ragtime. Officers threw their searchlights into the place but the instrument could not be frightened into silence.

"GRESELOA"

By Marlan Gray.

Herbert B. Turner & Co., of Boston, have discovered a new and rising star in the literary firmament. In a young lady who shows in this, her first book, remarkable talent, which with mature years and study should give her no small place in the literary world.

Charles Warren Stoddard, Ph. D., LL. D., author, poet, and traveler, whose "Islands of Tranquil Delights" is a delightful literary elixir, and whose "South Sea Idylls" has become an American classic, says of Miss Grey's book: "A dainty volume containing the story of a forlorn little orphan, with much of the gipsy in her nature and love-lunger in her heart. There is something of the charm of Graham's 'Golden Age' in the telling of this simple story; something of the simplicity of the 'Pilgrim's Progress.' It is told with the freedom and freshness of youth and a humor that is delightfully naive."

Miss Letherby, the maiden aunt, does not understand the very spontaneous little person who has come to live with her.

"Miss Letherby's voice shook with emotion. 'Greselda, could you live here with me and be happy? Greselda's eyes wandered all around the room before she spoke."

she stopped for want of breath to finish, then, with a brief pause she said, "No."

Of course, there is an attic for the child to mouse in. "There were a dozen trunks there, Greselda would have said a hundred, of different kinds and, yes, shapes, for beside a huge, square, dusty-looking thing whose iron corners were indeed threatening, stood a small one of worn leather, void of everything like the dingy foreign tags pasted on the formidable looking neighbors. MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

There has never been a time in the history of the country when municipal ownership of public utilities was more popular than it is today. The people seem to have gone daffy over the question, and many of them seem possessed of the notion that public ownership means not only economical service, but a cash dividend to be distributed annually among the people.

The city of Chicago has voted to buy the street railways and elected a mayor who declares intentions of carrying out the wishes of the people. This may result in the end in a 3-cent fare, but what does it mean to the business men and taxpayers of Chicago? The men who have built the city and who are constantly contributing to its development? It means a burden of double taxation for years to come.

These men might better submit to a 3-cent fare and make good the loss to the companies, than to become the sole owners.

Other people's money is easy money to spend and the public crib is considered free plunder. The men who vote and talk for municipal ownership, with rare exception, are the men who contribute nothing in the way of taxes for the support of a city.

This is true concerning many other reforms which are more theoretical than practical. This class of men do not belong to the ranks of labor. A liberal constituency is found among the educators and writers who never lose an opportunity to air their views on theories of political economy.

Many newspaper and magazine writers, whose only equipment is a college education, are badly tainted with impractical theories. They contribute nothing in the way of tax support to the communities which tolerate them, and yet they do not hesitate to advocate the spending of other people's money to advance unwise theories.

The speakers who travel over the country preaching the same doctrine, would not recognize a tax receipt, and would feel insulted if called on by an assessor.

Yet the fact remains that this class of speakers and writers, backed by the irresponsible masses, are in the ascendancy today, and all sorts of wild legislation results.

The Chicago Tribune has for years advocated municipal ownership, but since the last election the Tribune has come to its senses. The paper has at last discovered that the city water works is not only a rat hole for public money, but that the plant itself is 20 years behind the times. It now views with alarm the prospect of traction ownership and would be glad to aid in rescinding the late action of the people.

Municipal ownership is a snare and delusion. It means political management, neglect and extravagance, a burden to taxpayers, and in the end disastrous failure.

THE TEN-HOUR LAW.

The action of the supreme court on the ten-hour day is significant because it recognizes indirectly the principles of the open shop.

Organized labor attempts to say not only how many hours a man may work, but also how much he may accomplish in a given time. This is a double restriction and it reacts directly on the employee.

It places him first outside the limit of advancement or promotion because it makes a machine of him with limited capacity. The world is looking for men who are doing more than they are paid for doing.

The men who are clamoring for an 8, 9 or 10 hour day are not on the list, because the progress of the age recognizes no time limit.

The men behind the great industries of the country, which furnish employment to the masses, work without regard to time. The key of the office may be turned at a given time but the brain works on and the hour of rest is frequently after midnight.

These men need help and they are constantly on the alert for young men who possess the disposition as well as the ability to assume responsibility and get to the front.

Self interest should prompt every man, in every calling, to work for his own interests. He should not be hampered by rules or restriction which interfere with independence or manhood. The world has room for workers and but little room for time servers, or restricted workmen.

The Chicago strike goes merrily on with no prospect of early settlement. Many of the strikers will find themselves out and injured before they know it. The business of a great city can not stop to accommodate a few disgruntled workmen.

The southern railroads are exerting every energy to induce southern immigration and the ports of New Orleans and Galveston are distributing many foreigners through the south. There is room and to spare.

A phosphate plant at Liverpool, Florida, unearthed a well preserved skeleton of a man, a few days ago. The colored men employed at the mine fled in horror and refused to do any more work in that locality.

One of the most important questions to be considered by the new city council, is city lighting. There is chance for improvement as well as the saving of money.

The governor names by proclamation the 28th day of April as Arbor Day. It should be observed by every school in the land.

President Earling of the Milwaukee road, says that the legislature made a mistake in not recognizing the Oregon exposition with an appropriation.

The school board did a gracious thing at their last meeting, in recognizing the ability of their retiring president, H. J. Cunningham.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee News: It is still lawful to chew tobacco in Wisconsin and to expectorate in the rural districts.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Man's troubles never end—no sooner is the snow shovel put aside than it is time to trot out the lawn mower.

Brooklyn Times: "God be with you," says the czar to his fleet. It is believed, however, that the Japs will get there first.

Atlanta Journal: If the freight rate question is not settled soon we shall grow tired waiting on it and ship our bathing suit to the coast by express.

Alexander Globe: "When an actress marries she does not go to pieces like the ordinary country town bride; she takes care of herself for the sake of her second chance."

Des Moines Register-Leader: This is the season of the year when the thoughtful husband begins to expend his vocabulary complimenting his wife's appearance in her old hat.

Racine Journal: The Milwaukee socialist party is said to be in imminent danger of a split, which will result in two factions. If true, it shows the supremacy of human nature over all.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The bachelors of Wisconsin now have a chance to prove, by paying the bachelor tax promptly and cheerfully, that they are as thankful for their lot as they pretend to be.

Marquette Eagle-Star: None of the governmental departments is doing more painstaking and conscientious work to the fulfillment of its mission than is the department of agriculture.

La Crosse Chronicle: All this argument about the Congregationalists, accepting the Rockefeller gifts turns out to be "ex post facto," so to speak. The money had been accepted before the arguments began.

Rockford Register-Gazette: The experts are going to import a callosa scyophanta to eat up the gypsy moths in New England. The gypsy moths will wet their bills and don their own Latin names and then we will probably see a battle royal.

Evening Wisconsin: Boston is in a state of panic. The sacred precincts of the "beep" have been evaded by the adulterant, and the esculent legume which as made Boston famous, has been "doctored" with salicylic acid and colored with aniline dye.

St. Paul Globe: The fate of the Boer general who got drunk in Chicago, forged some checks and was sent to prison just goes to show that because a man is successful in handling a slambok he must not assume that he can control a Chicago highball.

Winneconne Local: A young fellow in Milwaukee wants a divorce because the bride hypnotized him before the parson performed the wedding operation on them. If that young fellow lives long enough to get ripe, he will learn that he was not treated differently from any other bridegroom.

Exchange: A physician who prepared simple remedies to drugs prescribed for a man whose liver was inactive, the juice of half a lemon in hot water, without sugar, to be taken night and morning for a few days. Following this prescription, the patient found that his daily headaches disappeared and his appetite returned. For some constitutions, lemon juice is a sure remedy than any drug.

It is certainly safer and pleasanter. It is cheaper as well, for the days when the majority of Americans lived "Ten Miles From a Lemon" are no more.

Chicago Record-Herald: The state of New York did the whole nation a great service when it took over Niagara Falls from private owners and made it a public possession. All the more shame now that New York—or rather that collection of bandits acting in its legislature—is preparing to sell out the falls to private promoters of power plants. Past grants of franchises by Canadian and New York legislature have resulted in the abstraction of 48,400 cubic feet of water per second from the Niagara River. The state geologist of New York estimates that when $0,000 cubic feet per second have been diverted into the power plants the American falls will cease to exist. The Leggett bill now before the New York legislature will, according to the declaration of competent engineers, complete the work of destruction of the American falls. Little hope is left that the legislature will stay its greedy hands. In the face of the $500 per vote which current rumor says the power plant promoters are publicly offering, the passage of the bill seems assured. But the bill cannot become a law without Governor Higgins' signature. "Milwaukee Sentinel": In accepting the conservative measure and agreeing to abide by its provisions, the railroad companies have made concessions that entitle them to some return. They have shown their willingness to meet the people of the state half way. They have neither haggled over trifles nor split hairs in criticizing the bill, and they have surrendered technical advantages that would have served to keep the rate commission problem alive for many years. In return for this manly, open, fair stand they are entitled to what President Roosevelt calls a "square deal," and when the people of Wisconsin fully understand the situation, as they will when the record now being made at Madison is reviewed, they will see to it that the radical agitators are rebuffed for continuing the fight when there is nothing more to fight about.

Wind's Freak Caused Trouble. As the pallbearers were taking the casket from the house to the hearse at the funeral of a prominent man in an eastern town one very windy day, a sudden gust of wind took a wreath from the coffin and placed it gently on the head of one of the bearers. It came near breaking up the funeral, and it certainly seriously disturbed the gravity of the occasion.

Don't do any disagreeable thing today that you can postpone until tomorrow. Perhaps to-morrow there will be no need to do it.

CLAIMS DEAL DUE TO WAGER

MAN REPRESENTING HIMSELF AS ATTORNEY VISITS BELOIT.

SEQUELS MRS. CHADWICK

Last Chapter in the Atwood-Walker
Horse Deal Is Not Yet
Written.

As a sequel to the Atwood-Walker horse deal, in which Mr. Atwood-Walker received some three hundred dollars the worst of it, comes a story from Beloit, to the effect that a representative of the mysterious Atwood-Walker called on Attorney Udell of that city yesterday and tried to explain the whole matter as a poke, or rather a bet made by a western mine-owner, and asking that the two hundred dollars now in Mr. Udell's hands be returned to him. Mr. Udell refused to do this and as a result the smooth stranger departed without his coin. He did not tackle Mr. McGowan of Janesville or offer any explanations here. The Beloit News, in exploiting the sequel of the story, said: "W. C. Hoyer, purporting to be an attorney from Chicago, representing E. M. Atwood, wealthy Idaho mine-owner, with offices in the Windy city, stepped into the office of C. E. Udell this afternoon and asked for the $200, less fees, which the local attorney has left as a result of the Evansville horse sale incident of Monday."

Mr. Udell was surprised to learn that he had been having dealings with a wealthy mine-owner instead of a clever crook as he had come to look upon Atwood-Walker in the last two days. He asked Mr. Hoyer to show his title to the money, and the latter displayed a letter supposed to have been written by himself, but obviously in the same hand as that of Mr. Atwood, late of Evansville. The letter asked Mr. Udell to turn over to Mr. Hoyer the $200, less the fee for his trouble in the matter.

The local attorney thereupon stated that the self-styled Chicago lawyer that when a title to the $200 could be proven by anyone he would turn it over, less his fee, which he did not name. He admitted later that he had not yet decided what fee to charge.

Claims Deal Result of Wager

Mr. Hoyer then told how the wealthy mine-owner came to be engaged in the horse-selling. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde business. He said that his business required him to travel considerably and that while in Madison a few days ago he made the statement that it was not difficult to fool people in money matters in a similar way to that employed by Mrs. Chadwick. A bet of $500 was made that he could not fool any Wisconsin attorneys, and as a result, Mr. Atwood went to Evansville, made himself solid with the bank and prominent business-men and laid his plans to catch the attorneys McGowan of Janesville and Udell of Beloit with what degree of success was related Tuesday.

Having told his story and received little satisfaction at the hands of Udell the stranger left. He is not listed among the lawyers of Chicago.

SLOT MACHINE WAS SEIZED BY POLICE

Apparatus Dispensing Cash Was Jerked from European Hotel
Last Evening.

At ten o'clock last evening Chief Constable and Officers Brown and Bear visited the European hotel, located opposite the C. & N. W. depot, and took possession of a large slot-machine which deals in the coin of the realm. There was a farmer toying with the whirling wheel when the officers rudely snatched the outfit away. The apparatus was put aboard a wagon and hustled to the police station and the proprietors, Carpenter and Lernerhert, are to be brought into court today. It is against the law to operate these cash machines in Janesville.

Innocent of Offense

At the police station this morning Charles Carpenter pleaded a conscience void of offense. He said that an agent visited him some time ago and not being aware that such things were prohibited here, he agreed to rent the machine. It was installed in his barroom yesterday morning. The apparatus has a music box attachment and is worth $150. Chief Constable has not decided what disposal will be made of it.

Thought Town Wide Open

Mr. Carpenter further stated that he had gleaned from the tenor of certain articles appearing in the columns of the Gazette that Janesville was a "wide-open" town. He was even disposed to shift some of the blame for his predicament on the press. That is about the choicest bit of unconscious humor uncovered for several weeks. Owing to the fact that the court was busy with another case and Mr. Carpenter had urgent business in Watertown, it was decided not to take his case up today.

CLOVER LEAF CREAMERY IN TOWN OF BELOIT CONSUMED BY FLAMES

Conflagration Monday Night Caused Heavy Loss to Proprietors.

Beloit, April 19.—The Clover Leaf creamery which was destroyed by fire last Monday was not only a loss to the owners, Corvill and Brinkman, but also the farmer patrons. The building is totally destroyed and the loss cannot be entirely covered by the insurance. The fire started between the engine-room and the main part and was not discovered until the flames had made good headway. The morning's cream and the butter was moved safely. Most of the household goods of Mr. Corvill who lived in the building were saved. The separator and some of the vats were moved. The rest of the machinery including a new gasoline engine will be a total loss. The owners sent away at once for a steam turbine separator and it was installed in the milkhouse of Ed. Racey, Wednesday morning, and the usual amount of milk was cared for there. The churning will be done at the Willowdale creamery of Mr. Brinkman.

WILL ADVOCATE RETRENCHMENT

MAYOR IS TO PLEAD FOR ECON-OMY TONIGHT.

NEW COUNCIL IS DEMOCRATIC

And No Man Endorsed by Municipal League Remains—Exciting Contests for Several Offices.

Certain characteristics of the new council will not fail to impress the observer when that body meets for organization and general business this evening. In the first place it will be a democratic council, six to four, with a democratic executive in the chair. In the second place there will not be in that semi-circle of ten a single man who in his candidacy at any time received the official endorsement of the Municipal League. If the outlook chances to be one who deeply sympathized with that movement, it is possible that something like this will be his sad soliloquy: "How fleet the works of men—Back to their earth again—Ancient and holy things fade like a dream."

Some Excitement Promised

However, such mournful reflections will have no place within the hall. It promises to be an exciting session with frequent and close balloting on the candidates who are to fill some of the offices. There are said to be no less than seven candidates in the race for the office of street commissioner alone. Besides that the council must elect its president, the health officer, the two assessors, and the janitor. The office of chief engineer is appointive and the present capable official will doubtless continue in office without any renewal of his appointment.

Mayor's Inaugural Address

Mayor Hutchinson's inaugural address will take up a number of important questions which confront the city. One which is to be discussed will be the retrenchment of expenses in every way compatible with the city's welfare and progress. Particular reference will be made to the street commissioner's department. The advisability of buying a street sweeper and other kindred topics will also be touched upon. Whether or not the new officers' desks will be decorated with flowers by admiring friends depends on the friends. The aldermen have agreed to buy no flowers for themselves.

Candidates for Office

J. H. Watson, the present incumbent, Thomas McCuen, James Bennett, August Lutz, William Hughes, C. H. Kueck, and George Croft, are some of the names mentioned for the office of street commissioner. C. B. Conrad for the west side and Martin Dunn and George Croft on the east side are the names proposed for the "assessorships." Dr. W. D. Merritt, the present health officer, will be a candidate for re-election and it is possible that other names will be proposed. George Phillips will probably be named as janitor without opposition.

The New Aldermen

The new aldermen are: Eugene F. Fish, republican, from the first ward; Edward C. Baumann, democrat, from the second; Carl F. Brockhaus, republican, from the third; August C. Hager, democrat, from the fourth; John J. Dulin, democrat, from the fifth.

WILL BEGIN CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

Physical Director Ward Plans Outdoor Exercises for Y. M. C. A.

Members.

Next Monday evening, if the temperature is high enough and the roads in condition, the first cross country run of the season will be taken by a number of the members of the Y. M. C. A. Physical Director Ward has arranged to take those who wish to go on these runs about three miles the first time, increasing the distance as those participating get into condition and become used to the work. It is planned that these expeditions will take place not less than two times each week during the coming summer and it is possible that a number of surrounding towns will be visited. It is probable that if a sufficient number take up the work this year that a match or contest between teams may be arranged for some holiday early in the summer.

IRA MOYER BACK IN JANESVILLE

ALLEGED BIGAMIST COMES TO SEE ACCUSER.

DENIES CHARGES IN TOTO

Young Man Was Released on $250
Bail from Keokuk Jail—Cecelia
Goodman Still Quarantined

"I've been worked to a finish just because certain parties have thought that I had a little money and they thought they needed it," said Ira S. Moyer at the Y. M. C. A. building this morning. The young man who was held for trial by the grand jury sitting at Keokuk, Iowa, on the charge of bigamy arrived in Janesville yesterday. He says that he stood jail life as long as he could and then put up the $250 bail necessary to secure his release until the case is tried—probably some time next fall.

Quarantine in the Way

Mr. Moyer expects to remain here some time and may secure employment until the time comes for him to go back to Keokuk. He endeavored to see Cecelia Goodman, the woman who claims to be his wife, yesterday, but found that she was quarantined with diphtheria. "I have enough troubles now, without that," he tells his friends with a smile. However, the quarantine is to be lifted tomorrow and the conference he seeks will probably be held at that time.

The former telegraph student speaks in high terms of the woman in question. He says that he cannot understand what motive may be actuating her persecution of him. "The statements made in newspapers that I have at any time associated with women for the purpose of getting their money, or that I have gotten money from them, are lies," he says with some feeling. "I have nothing that belongs to the young woman here."

No Fear As to Outcome

"The whole deal is a plot concocted by a rascally lawyer in Keokuk to clear himself of guilt by using me as a scapegoat. When the evidence is called for at the trial the whole case will fall flat," Moyer says that he was firing on the North-Western between this city and Elroy just before he went west. When his troubles in court are ended he intends to settle down in Colorado Springs, the city where he was sojourning at the time of his arrest. When asked about the young women of the Illinois and Indiana cities, who were supposed to have married him, he said that somebody down in that country must be trying to injure him for some reason or other which he could not fathom.

The Boston Situation.
President Taylor Progressive --- American Versus National League Stars --- Comparison of Pitching Staffs --- The Leading Infielders, Etc.

There will be really only one team in Boston this season. With a good break in the luck and by escaping accidents the Nationals may show a little better than they did last season, but with only two old pitchers, Wilhelm and Frazer, and with three colts—Cannell, Sharpe and Delahanty—in the outfield as pennant will ever be won. If Willis doesn't show up, whom can the club get at this stage to replace him? Tenney is optimistic, but optimism doesn't win games or produce star ball players.

And when one considers that Soden and Conant, owners of the Nationals, are both worth a couple of millions it is hard to explain their parsimonious policy. How different indeed from John I. Taylor, president of the Americans, who with a pennant winning team spent nearly $15,000 in buying new players for this season!

Is it any wonder that Boston is an American league city?

Tim Sharp's Views.

What Timothy Sharp, the noted baseball expert, says about the relative

Chicago club has three others in Brown, Briggs and Weimer that are almost as good as Wicker, and, in fact, in naming the fourteen representatives
I have omitted several that are almost as good as the ones I have named.

"In catchers and outfielders the National league is also well supplied, and only, as I said before, at the left handed corner, is the decided superiority of the Americans manifest. There is so evident a desire in some quarters to belittle the quality of the National league that I want to show that a true analysis will disclose the baselessness of this disparagement."

Sharp thinks the strongest nine that could be got out of the American league would comprise Chesbro, Dineen and Young, pitchers; Criger, catcher; Harry Davis, first base; Lajole, second base; Wallace, short; Bradley, third, and Jake Stahl, Heldrick and Keeler, outfield.

American League's Strong Point.

He also says that there can be no question that on the left side of the diamond—that is, as far as shortstops and third basemen are concerned—the American league has by far the advantage.

Every club in the American league except St. Louis and Washington is supplied with a first class third baseman. The list of the great third cushion experts is really imposing, and he doubts if he will ever see their equals again in a bunch in one league.

Jimmy Collins of Boston, Bradley of Cleveland, Conroy of New York, Lave Cross of Philadelphia, Tannehill and Coughlin—what an array of splendid talent! And it makes one regret that Washington and St. Louis have not representatives in this class. If Wallace is kept at third by McAleer, the Browns will have the peer of Collins, Bradley or any other guardian of the difficult corner.

Shortstops.

Look at the American league shortstops, and they stick up almost as strong. Parrot, Eberfeld, Wallace.

BILL BRADLEY, CLEVELAND'S STAR THIRD BASEMAN.

abilities of the American and National league pitchers forms an interesting chapter of diamond reading.

"It is claimed that the pitching in the American league is away above the National article, but I do not believe the difference is so great as is imagined," begins Tim.

Chesbro, Dineen, Young, Etc.

"The best pitchers in the American league are Chesbro, Dineen, Young, Plunk, Vaddell, Berubard, Donohue, Owen, Smith, Powell, Glade, Donovan, Mullin and Case Patten. I believe I have named fourteen of them and taken about all the crackjacks, although I have omitted Jess, Moore and possibly one or two more.

"Now, let me pick fourteen from the National league, and the best, in my judgment, confining myself to the names, are as follows: McGinnity, 'Dummy' Taylor, Mathewson, Bob Wicker, Harper, Hahn, Philippe, Leever, Jack Taylor, Nichols, Jones, Willis and Pittenger. Every one of these is first class, but some of them have not the reputation the noted ones in the American league have, but are every bit as good.

Bob Wicker.

"There isn't a club in existence that can beat Bob Wicker when he is right, and his feat of letting down the Giants with one scratch hit and a shutout. I think it was, has never, considering the circumstances, been surpassed. We all remember that game at the Polo grounds, New York, last summer between Chicago and the Giants on a Saturday afternoon when they had that record breaking crowd, the largest crowd that was ever assembled to see a professional baseball game. Wicker was as cool as an icicle, and his performance was simply marvelous. The George Davis and Cassidy are wonders in their line, but Monte Cross, Turner and O'Leary are not wonders.

When you compare the third basemen and shortstops of the National league with those marvels there is really no comparison as a whole, although it must be conceded that the Nationals have in Dublin, Corcoran, Wagner, Tinker and Shay men of very high class as fielding shortstops. There is a dearth of third basemen, for while Leach, Steinfeldt, Brain, Devlin and Casey are fair none of them except Tommy Leach would be rated as strictly first class.

That's where the American league has a most decided advantage and will have for a year or two yet until some of the coming stars of the National have arrived.

McGraw Is Content.

Manager McGraw of the New York
National league champions is not developing many "phenoms" these days of doubt and much anxiety. He seems to be contented with the veterans he has on hand.

As long as they can "deliver the goods" he will have nothing to fear.
McGinnity, Mathewson and Taylor will probably do the bulk of the pitching again this season, although it is said that Ames expects to take his regular turn on the rubber, while White should do better work in the pitcher's position this year than he did last season if one can believe his he hears. The rest of McGraw's team have come up to expectations in their work thus far.

PENSION BOARD OUT OF OFFICE

Resignations.

Washington, April 20.—Nine of the ten pension examiners constituting the board of review were separated from the government service Wednesday. Commissioner Warner transmitted the nine resignations to Secretary Hitchcock with the recommendation that they be accepted, and Mr. Hitchcock took the desired action without delay. Both the secretary and the commissioner declare that the incident is closed. This, however, is not in accordance with the claim of the resigners, who assert that representation was made to them that should they hand in their resignations matters would be relieved and restorations would be made in the near future. The difficulty was the board's approval of several pensions to applicants whose only claim was enlistment in a Pennsylvania and a New Jersey regiment of volunteers for service in the Civil war.

SCORES LEADER OF MORMONS

J. F. Gibbs Excoriates President

Smith for Attending Prize Fight.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 20.—

President Joseph F. Smith's presence at the Schreck-Gardner prize fight has drawn forth another bitter public criticism from a prominent member of the Mormon church. J. F. Gibbs in an open letter refers to Smith as a "national saint of prize fighting," challenges the president's claim to be a "prophet, seer and revelator" and charges "that among his own people Joseph Smith is regarded as a self-confessed defiler of the laws of God and man." Gibbs, who has been a Mormon all his life, repudiates Smith as leader of the church and charges the president with having convicted the whole Mormon people as violators of pledges given to the government.

PHIL KING MAKES HIS WORK HEAVY

No Grumblers To Be Allowed in the Wisconsin Football Team, Next Fall.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis.—Coach Phil King of the University of Wisconsin football team is determined to have his way and weed out any symptoms of insubordination from the players. On his recent visit here he gave orders for spring practice and left directions as to certain fundamental elements of the Wisconsin game as it will be played next fall and which he ordered to be practiced in the short season of spring training under Captain Vanderboom. A difference of opinion as to the proper way to snap back the ball was encountered in Richard Remp, the big Wisconsin center. Mr. King refused to be argued with, would not listen when "Dick" insisted that he could not learn a new way and now Remp has announced that after the Easter recess he would leave Madison and enter business. It is said that Mr. King has never had a high opinion of Mr. Remp, but this appears to have nothing to do with the determination of the center rush to quit the game. He attempted to show Mr. King in manner as polite as possible the Remp manner of snapping the ball, and was met with the pointed information that King came to coach, not to be coached, to give orders and not to receive lessons, and that no insubordination would be tolerated. Mr. Remp, somewhat mournfully says he has no hope under the circumstances, that he could ever overcome the habit acquired in the last two seasons and would be unable to change his style of play. It is said that Mr. King took this early opportunity of letting it be known that the coach will be supreme in Wisconsin football next fall and not be subject to the arguments of players. While the loss of Remp is regretted keenly the moral effect of the lesson in discipline is expected to abundantly make up for the loss.

SKIRTS NEEDED TO HIDE DEFECTS

Limbs of the Gentle Sex Are Designated as Angular and Ungainly by Gymnasium Chief.

New York, April 20.—Women are far less graceful than men, have a poorer anatomical mechanism, and skirts are chiefly useful to hide the ugly angles at the female knee, according to the opinion of Dr. E. H. Arnold, director of the New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics, as expressed at the convention of the American Physical Education association. He thought dancing was very much more valuable scientifically for women than for men, strengthening the weakest portions of their frames. Dr. Arnold denounced the social etiquette which bade women trip with mincing steps, and forbade them to run and jump, so that the circulation of the blood in the lower limbs was impeded. He advocated the hopping dance, saying that the social dance, with its glide or walk, is useless hygienically.

"Some of the men use language strenuous, if not biblical, about dancing," said Dr. W. G. Anderson about the introduction of dancing at Yale. He was not sure of its success there, but gave a number of statistics proving its widespread use in gymnasiums throughout the United States. He said that Murphy, the Yale trainer, sends his men to the dancing class, as it makes them quicker and surer on their feet.

AIRSHIP TO SAIL FORTY MILE GAIT

Captain Thomas S. Baldwin Will Build Rival to "The Arrow," Which Will Excel in Speed.

New York, April 20.—Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin announces that he will build immediately an airship to beat "The Arrow," which recently astonished Californians by its flights. Roy Knabenshue, the helmsman of "The Arrow," left for Buffalo to arrange for motors for the new airship. It will be built in Jersey City and will be ready by the last of June.

The new machine will be eighty-five feet long, twenty-five feet wide at the widest part, and will be operated by a sixteen-horsepower gasoline motor. It will have a sharper prow than "The Arrow."

"The Arrow" and the new ship are to be used this summer in long experimental flights from New York to Boston, Utica, Philadelphia, Washington and other places. They will make flights over and under the East river bridge. Tracy A. Tisdell, who navigated an airship in 1896 from Brooklyn across East river and up to Yonkers, will have charge of them.

Capt. Baldwin said:

"The Arrow" sails twenty-two and one-half miles an hour in calm air, tacking across the wind. We expect to get out of "Arrow No. 2" a maximum speed in dead calm of forty miles an hour. We will stick to the equilateral triangle principle of construction."

Senator O. H. Platt suffered a relapse in Washington, Conn. He had a chill and there was a return of the bronchial trouble on the patient's right side.

J. H. Stoddard, the veteran actor, who was stricken with nervous prostration at Galt, Ont., some time ago and who it was feared would die, is steadily improving.

President Kelly of Earlham college, a member of the Indiana Rhodes scholarship committee, announced that Frank Aydelotte, a teacher in the Louisville schools and a graduate of Indiana university, had been selected.

ROMANCE OF THE CARNEGIE MATCH

Pittsburg, Pa., April 20.—The secret wedding of Miss Nancy Carnegie, niece of the ironmaster, to James Hever, who was her mother's coachman when she fell in love with him, is announced.

The marriage occurred in May, 1904, and an infant daughter has been born to the young couple, who have spent their honeymoon in Europe. They arrived in New York Tuesday, and are the guests of Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

Carnegie is Satisfied.

Andrew Carnegie, in confirming the story of the marriage, said:

"Public interest in the affair is ridiculous. My niece, Nancy, was married to Mr. Hever more than a year ago. They are happy. The wedding was quiet, but there wasn't any objection. No, none of the family was there. I was abroad and the rest of them did not happen to be in New York. It was a real love match. He's honest, sober and industrious, if he is poor. I'd prefer to have my niece married to a poor but good man than to a worthless duke."

Husband Is Welcome.

"By the way, get that in—'worthless duke.' You see, we've got about all the rich men we need in the family. He's welcome."

"Will Mr. Hever continue in business as a riding master?"

"How should I know," answered Mr. Carnegie. "I've told all that the public needs to know."

Nancy Carnegie was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Carnegie, and is 24 years old. She was one of Pittsburg's most prominent society girls. She had many suitors, not only in Pittsburg, but in New York, because of her admirable nature and sweet disposition. She is wealthy in her own right.

Brought Up in Affluence.

After the death of Thomas M. Carnegie Mrs. Carnegie, who was formerly Miss Lucy Coleman, spent most of each winter at Dungeness, her winter home at Fernandina, Fla. In summer she lived in the east or cruised in her yacht, being a member of the New York Yacht Club, and for many years enjoying the distinction of being the only woman member of that organization.

About four years ago Mrs. Carnegie employed James Hever as coachman and groom at Dungeness. He was then 30 years old, a widower, with one child, good looking, and gentlemanly. He had been left an orphan at an early age and was reared in an aristocratic home in Dublin, but left Ireland to make his own way.

Makes Love While Riding.

Nancy Carnegie is a devoted horsewoman, and during the winters at Dungeness took daily horseback rides, usually accompanied by James Hever.

That tells the story. A little more than a year ago Hever went to Mrs. Carnegie, told her that he loved Nancy and that Nancy loved him. He asked permission to marry Nancy. Mrs. Carnegie refused and Hever left her employ at once, going to New York, where he established a riding academy.

Angers the Mother.

Last May Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter visited New York. There Nancy and Hever met one afternoon. Together they sought a Roman Catholic priest and were married. Nancy is a Protestant, but she yielded to her husband's faith. Then they told Nancy's mother.

It is admitted that there was a stormy scene, and Mr. Hever and his bride sailed almost immediately for Europe. The fact of their marriage was kept a secret, closely guarded by family and relatives.

Carnegie is said to have made a handsome money present to all his nieces upon their marriage and to have followed the custom in the case of Miss Nancy Carnegie, who is his favorite niece.

Norcross in Argument

The Warner civil service merit bill was ordered to engrossment and third reading by a vote of 63 to 25. The lagatz amendment which required all present holders of jobs to compete in examinations for their positions, was killed by a vote of 33 to 52. Action on the amendment came after a spirited debate in which Captain Phin Norcross argued ably for the amendment, as for the good of the service, and not to the disadvantage of those who have been placed in positions by reason of political or factional service. Mr. Warner, Duncan McGregor, and others opposed the amendment on the ground that present officials were appointed for specific terms and ought not to be disturbed if the "square deal" was to be given them.

A telegram from Mexico City announces that Otto E. Ahrens, former clerk of the circuit court of Racine county, has been imprisoned for alleged neglect to pay wages due his men. Mr. Ahrens went to Mexico to manage the Alexandra Mining company.

James McMullen, aged 37 years, an inmate of the Marathon county almshouse, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. Remorse over the killing in May 7, 1903, of John Rogolski, also an inmate of the almshouse, is believed to be responsible for his act, although he was acquitted of murder.

Robert E. Wright of Allentown, Pa., grand sire of the Odd Fellows in the United States, appointed ex-Mayor John B. Goodwin of Atlanta grand secretary of the sovereign grand to succeed J. Frank Grant, who died at Baltimore last week.
